

Introduction to Public Health Practice

Workshop Description

Introduction to Public Health Practice is a full-day training that provides a historical perspective on public health accomplishments, offers a brief overview of current trends and emerging issues in public health, and reviews the scientific disciplines that guide public health practice. Additionally, this training will identify organizations at the local, state and national level that comprise the public health system and will explore programs, policies and practices within the framework of the 10 Essential Public Health Services.

Learning Objectives

Participants will be able to:

1. Describe at least 3-5 public health accomplishments that have had a significant impact on population-based health
2. Identify organizations at the local, state, and federal levels that comprise the public health system
3. Describe the 10 Essential Public Health Services in the context of public health practice

Intended Audiences

Staff from state and local health agencies, community-based organizations, and others interested in learning more about the practice of public health.

Length of Training: 1 day

Trainer: Sally Casey, MPH
